Message from the Lieutenant Governor of Saskatchewan

Congratulations to the Saskatchewan Command of the Royal Canadian Legion on the completion of the 17th Edition of the Military Resource Service Recognition Book. As His Majesty's representative in Saskatchewan, I am pleased to extend greetings on behalf of King Charles III, King of Canada and I offer my wholehearted thanks to all those who support this valuable publication and the Legion's many other important initiatives.

As Honorary Patron of the Saskatchewan Command, I am especially grateful to everyone who helped to research and share the images and stories of the members of the military who are recognized in this book. It is a wonderful gift for families to have their loved ones celebrated in this manner. These brave men and women from our province have played a vital role in defending the peace, freedom and democracy that we enjoy. We can all be proud of their service and sacrifice.

Thank you to the members of the Royal Canadian Legion for providing crucial assistance to veterans. My family has a special bond with the Legion as my wife's father and uncles served in the Second World War and were instrumental in establishing a Legion branch in their northern community. I extend my deep gratitude to all veterans for their service, and I wish the Saskatchewan Command continued success.

A Message from the Premier

On behalf of the Government of Saskatchewan, it is an honour for me to provide greetings for the 17th Annual Military Service Recognition Book.

Saskatchewan is proud of all our Veterans who have served, and express gratitude to those who continue to serve so bravely and with such great courage, selflessness, and determination. For more than a century, Saskatchewan men and women have made valiant and noble sacrifices as members of the Canadian Armed Forces. And, as a province and as a nation, we commend those in uniform, past and present, for their tireless contributions to our communities, our province, and our country.

I commend everyone that has contributed their time and energy to make this publication possible. As a historical resource, this commemorative book allows us to meet more personally the military personnel who made immense contributions to protect the freedom we enjoy today.

Thank you to all of our Veterans who answered the call to service, and to our brave sons and daughters who still answer the call today. We appreciate the legacy of peace and freedom these men and women fought so bravely to preserve.

President's Message

On behalf of Saskatchewan Command of the Royal Canadian Legion I bring greetings and express deepest gratitude to those who have supported and contributed to this the 17th edition of the Military Service Recognition Book. This edition provides names, faces and details of military service of Canadians who served our Country.

I am proud to say that this edition is marked with a memorial tribute to Queen Elizabeth II. In this edition, the Royal Canadian Legion, as keepers of Remembrance, also recognize and commemorate the service of the more than 40,000 Canadian Armed Forces members who served in Afghanistan, Canada's largest military deployment since the 2nd world war. We are proud and thankful for their dedicated service. This book will help future generations to better understand our Veterans and serving members for all they have done and continue to do to uphold peace, freedom, and democracy.

I acknowledge the efforts and commitment of Tara Brown who co-ordinated the compilation of submissions for this publication. I extend heartfelt thanks to Fenety Marketing for their continued support in producing this our 17th edition of the Saskatchewan Commands Military Service Recognition Book.

Sincerely,

The Naming of New Seed Varieties Will Honour Veterans

FP Genetics Inc. and The Royal Canadian Legion, Saskatchewan Command, are pleased to announce a new collaboration that will seek to honour veterans and highlight the sacrifices they have made in service of community and country. "The legislation that applies to naming plant varieties operates on the principle of "One Variety - One Name". This affords us a unique, timeless and global opportunity to recognize veterans for their contributions to Canada by naming new crop varieties in their honour. Symbolically, these variety namesake's will further contribute to the global community through high quality food production, which Canadian farmers are known for" says Chris Churko, CEO of FP Genetics. As part of this collaboration, The Legion's Saskatchewan Command will accept and review applications from military and RCMP veterans and their families, and make recommendations to FP Genetics for variety names. As part of the submission, applicants will submit biographies and the stories they wish FP Genetics and Saskatchewan Command to share with the community. Once a variety bearing a veteran's name is officially registered, the public will be able to access variety information via FP Genetics communications and follow links to the Legion's website to learn more about the person behind the name, their contributions to community and country, and the great services the Royal Canadian Legion - Saskatchewan Command offers in support of veterans and first responders.

Table of a Fallen Soldier

The tradition of setting a separate table in honour of our prisoners of war and missing comrades has been in place since the end of the Vietnam War. The manner in which this table is decorated is full of special symbols to help us remember our brothers and sisters in arms.

The Table of a Fallen Soldier is set in the hall or dining room, where guests can see it, but where it will not be in the way.

The table is smaller than the others

symbolizing the everlasting concern and remembrance for our fallen comrades.

The white tablecloth

draped evenly represents the purity of their motives while answering the call of duty.

The empty chair

representing the missing comrade.

The single place setting

represents your wish that the fallen men and women of the armed forces could be present at the happy occasion with you.

The white candle

representing the light of hope/light of life.

The single red rose

represents the blood shed/the families who love and keep faith with the men and women who serve.

The ribbon

represents loyalty in waiting for those who are serving away from home, while a red ribbon symbolizes the memory of and search for those missing in action.

The slices of lemon

on the bread plate represent the bitter loss of the life of the fallen soldier.

The salt upon the bread plate

represents the tears of their families.

The inverted wine glass

placed to the right of the plate, represents the fact that the fallen comrade will not be able to participate in the happy toasts at this event.

MUSKEG LAKE CREE NATION

Muskeg Lake's History

Muskeg Lake Cree Nation has a long and rich cultural history. First established in 1881, the core reserve is still home to approximately 256 community members (MLCN Health Records, June 2011). 2,413 additional members live across Saskatchewan and Canada, yet they are still proud to call Muskeg Lake their home and community.

We Are Our History

Our veterans have played a significant role in the ways we have developed as a community. When community members enlisted for WWI, WWII, the Korean conflict and Peace-time service, they came back changed—not only by war, but by having their eyes opened to the ways of the world outside the reserve. This shift in perspective has forever changed the way we see ourselves as a community.

In the second half of the 20th century, two agreements—Asimakaniseekan Askiy in 1988 and the Treaty Land Entitlement (TLE) Trust in 1992—led to the growth of Muskeg Lake. These agreements generated a need for the community to reach outward to surrounding governments and municipalities and bring us into a process of community consultation, something which had never before happened. The TLE Trust led to the acquisition of urban and agricultural lands, which fostered economic development for the community through land leasing and entrepreneurial growth.

Today, we look back on a proud history that we owe in great part to our veterans and to the community leaders who have changed the way we see ourselves as a community and in the larger world.

Why do we Wear a Poppy?

Why do we wear a poppy of red?
Is it to remind us of all the bloodshed?
Do we wear it to remember the soldiers that died?
For the ones that never got to say goodbye?

Do we wear a poppy to commemorate a grave?
Or do we wear it to recall the young and the brave?
We wear a poppy to show we care,
Although we cannot understand the wounds or despair.

Do we wear a crimson flower upon our chest,
To remind us for a moment that we have been blessed?
Blessed because young men gave up their lives,
Walked away to the sound of their families cries.

Blessed that we live in a country that's free,
The land of opportunity for you and for me.
Blessed that a simple poppy helps us recall,
That we truly want for nothing at all.

So many soldiers paid the ultimate price,
They sacrificed their lives for our freedom and our rights.
Poppies and poems, moments and prayers.
Hold fast the memories of those who despair.

Poppies lovingly laid on the tomb of the unknown,
Remind us that the soldier was one of our own.
Commemorate their service and recognize their deeds,
Support the Legion poppy campaign and veterans in need.

The poppy became a symbol in 1921,
It reminds us each year of what veterans have done.
100 years later the meaning remains,
Honoring soldiers in the fields where they lay.

IN YOUR TIME of LOSS

You can depend on
Young's Memorials

Young's Memorials
has served
Saskatchewan for over 100 years

From its humble beginnings in 1909, Young's Memorials has been committed to providing families with memorial stones that celebrate lives and stand the test of time. That has not changed in over 100 years, and it stands true today with owner Abraham Sun and his team.

Owner Abraham Sun is also proud to give back to the province he calls home. He has worked with the Tabernacle project at the Rosthern Bible Camp, donating $200,000 to build a life-sized version of the original Tabernacle described in the Old Testament. This project serves as a tourist destination and educational site devoted to recreating the original place of worship for the first Hebrews from where modern Christianity derives much of its history.

CAST in STONE

Young's prides itself on providing quality memorial stones that will acknowledge those who have left us for generations to come. The company provides stone from its vast network of dedicated overseas suppliers and can offer almost any kind of granite available in the market today. They can offer any headstone you might require, including standard and special shapes and colours.

Not only can they supply a beautiful array of stones in different colours and shapes, but they can also create a headstone design that is customized to the person you are memorializing. The company's in-house designers can craft a look based on your ideas, or you can choose from a selection of beautiful, pre-made designs. Working with a designer is easy with appointments available in-person and online. The company offers an advanced engraving service that can transfer any high-quality photos or images to a black headstone, as well as the traditional engraving method of sandblasting.

As well, Young's Memorials has become known for producing quality memorial products at competitive prices. Even during and now at the end of the pandemic, they try their best to keep the previous prices even though the cost of shipping and materials has increased dramatically.

Young's Memorials remains a proud, family-owned company that is committed to upholding and enhancing the tradition of quality memorialization in all forms. "Young's Memorials began operation in Regina in 1909," says Abraham. "Today, just like then, we offer the best quality memorial products while still maintaining a personal and family-oriented atmosphere for all our clients."

Visit Young's Memorials at 1010 Scarth Street in Regina, call 306.352.7372 for an appointment and learn more at youngsmemorial.ca. ■

BERGREN, Roy Birger

WWII

Roy was born in Gronlid, Saskatchewan on May 10, 1923. He joined the Navy in November 1942, at the age of nineteen. He began active service in March 1943. Roy spent seventeen months on convoy duty making seven trips across the Atlantic Ocean to Ireland and Scotland. Roy served as an Anti-Aircraft Gunner aboard the corvette HMCS Frontenac and on the corvette HMCS Fergus.

In March 1944, in the North Atlantic, Ordinary Seaman Roy Bergren was ready to go on duty at 0800 hours to stand a depth charge watch at the rear of the corvette HMCS Frontenac. He was asked to dump a pail of oily rags over the side when a wave hit him and carried him out about forty feet into the water. The temperature of the water at the time was 1 degree Celsius. There were several attempts to rescue Roy, but the ship lost sight of him many times. Finally, Roy was able to grab onto the heavy line and the crew pulled him alongside the ship and then onboard. He had been in the frigid water about 30-35 minutes and barely conscious when rescued. Roy remained in sick bay for a few days but suffered from numbness in his fingers for many months. The officers in the navy had seen a lot of water and many bitter storms in one of which Roy Bergren was washed overboard. They managed to pick Roy up again thanks to good seamanship and good luck.

While Roy was on the corvette Frontenac, they were escorting a frigate which was torpedoed by a submarine and sank. Roy said they had gone back to where the ship had gone down and another corvette was there picking up survivors. It was extremely traumatic to see their fellow sailors in the frigid and fuel covered water.

BERRY, Wilfred Edward

WWII

Wilfred was born in Central Butte on March 1, 1916. He enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force and served as a rear gunner in Canada, Great Britain and Northwest Europe. During the whole war, 51% of aircrew were killed on operations, 12% were killed or wounded in non-operational accidents and 13% became prisoners of war or evaders. Only 24% survived unscathed.

The Rear-Turret Gunners were in the most vulnerable position on the aircraft. The life expectancy of a W2 Rear-gunner was never high, mostly about five sorties (combat missions). Returning Veterans did not often talk about their service experience when they returned home. However, Wilf recounted to his friend Edgar Philpott an incident as a rear gunner. He had run out of ammunition. A German fighter came up from behind, not being fired upon, the German fighter pilot did not fire, and he just peeled off the pursuit.

Wilfred passed away on November 19, 1996.

HACK, Reinhold George

WWII

Reinhold was born in Success, Saskatchewan on October 11, 1913, and grew up in the Calder, Saskatchewan district. He enlisted in the Army on July 31, 1942, and served with the Royal Canadian Artillery in the United Kingdom, Continental Europe and Central Mediterranean Area during World War II. He was discharged in December 1945. In July 1946, he married Margaret (Peggy) Wussow of Churchbridge, Saskatchewan. They farmed many years in Togo, Saskatchewan where they raised a daughter and a son. They retired to Landenburg, Saskatchewan. He was a member of The Royal Canadian Legion for many years. He received the Canadian Volunteer Service Medal and Clasp, Italy Star, 1939-1945 Star, and France and Germany Star. Reinhold passed away on April 6, 1990.

HALL, Robert Geoffrey

WWII

Robert was born in Lashburn, Saskatchewan on June 19, 1919. He enlisted in the Army and served with Unit #13 Canadian Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery. He served in Canada, England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. He was proud to have served his country during World War II, silently torn by the horrors of it all, yet grateful and happy for the freedom of life he lived when it ended. When the big day, D-Day, finally came on June 6, Geoff was there driving his artillery truck. After bobbing around like a cork in the water, he finally got ashore and was able to deliver to his fellow troops. Not everyone who he served with survived this day. Although wounded, he felt very lucky to have made it through. After the war, Geoff married Ileene Scott and raised a wonderful family while farming back near his hometown to Lashburn. He lived the remainder of his life enjoying working with the land and never missed a Remembrance Day service. Robert passed away on January 10, 2007.

HALLETT, Albert

WWI

Albert and his brother came to the Jordan River area in 1911 to file for homesteads. He enlisted with the Canadian Army at the start of the war and served overseas until his discharge. He married Edith after the war and they farmed until 1951. They moved their family of four children to Sundridge, Ontario, where they had a dairy farm. They retired to Magnetawan, Ontario.

HANDFORD, Mervin Campbell

WWII

Mervin was born in Birsay, Saskatchewan on June 27, 1925.

The following is Mervin's experience in the military during World War II, in his own words.

On December 28, 1943, three days after Christmas, I went to Regina, Saskatchewan with my friend Lawrence Fisher. We went to No. 12 District Depot where we enlisted in the army. We passed our medical and I got my uniform. There were two sizes – too big and too small. The small size fit me because I weighed 118 pounds soaking wet, and I stood at 5 feet, 6 ½ inches tall. I was proud as a peacock!

I stayed in Regina at the army barracks for about two weeks, then went home to our farm for the weekend. My mother and father had to sign some papers before I could enlist in the army. I got back to Regina after my weekend pass, then it was off to Orillia, Ontario for my basic training. I arrived there about

January 15, 1944, and was assigned to our barracks.

Next morning, I was up bright and early, had a shower, and shaved what little fuzz there was on my face. I went over to the Mess Hall for breakfast, then back to the barracks to get ready to go on parade at eight in the morning.

I never forgot the regimental Sergeant Major. His name was Morgan, an English imperial army man. He used to run two miles before breakfast. Needless to say, he was a real soldier and in fine shape. He lined all the young guys on parade square and told us to queue up in three lines.

We were green as grass when it came to army drill. Can you imagine me, a young fellow from the stubble fields of Saskatchewan, now a soldier in the Canadian Army?

The Sergeant Major told us to stand to attention, then said, "Stand steady; you're like a bunch of jelly fish."

Then came, "Open Order, March" for inspection. The first line took two steps forward; the center line stayed as is; the back row took two steps back. Now it was time for Sergeant Major Morgan to walk up and down the three lines and inspect us. He stopped at me and said, "Sonny, where did you learn to tie your shoe laces?"

I said, "Sir, I learned on the farm in Saskatchewan."

He said, "You had better have them tied right tomorrow morning at parade time."

Also he said, "You're not on the farm now."

He then said, "Close Order, March." He called out orders and said, "From now on there is going to be quite a change in your lives."

He also said, "From now on, I will be your mother."

Not knowing enough to keep my mouth shut, I said, "You got that right Sergeant Major." Then he grinned. What a fine soldier he was.

On March 15, 1944, I went to Camp Borden for my advance training in the tank corps. What a change from basic training. Now they were teaching us how to drive tanks. There was very strict discipline in everything we did. Everything had to be neat, clean, and tidy. The bed had to be made with your kit bags and big pack, small pack, and haversack all placed neatly on the shelf. Your shoes were to be polished, soles laid up on your blanket, which was called a “death blanket”. There was a black stripe right down the center of the blanket. They were double-deck bunk beds.

The tanks we were trained to drive were Ram, Sherman, and Churchill. The Ram and Sherman tanks weighed 35 tons each, and the Churchill tank weighed 60 tons. They had Rolls-Royce 9-cylinder airplane engines in them. They used to take 400 gallons of gas to fill the tank, which was enough to last ten hours in the fields on the training grounds. We used to have to wash and clean them down with Varsol – all over and underneath the tanks. We would come into the barracks after ten hours of driving, go around the kitchen, and make sharp turns, throwing sand up through the screens in the windows. The cook would say, “You guys got sand all over my pies.”

I went back to Qu’Appelle, Saskatchewan for a week of embarkation leave to visit my family and all of my friends before going over the blue Atlantic bound for England.

I returned to Camp Borden, Ontario, and prepared to pack and get ready for our train ride to Halifax, Nova Scotia. We left Borden in May 1944, by train headed to Halifax. Upon arrival in Halifax, we boarded the ship for England. The name of the ship was the “New Amsterdam”. It was a Dutch ship with a Dutch crew. They spoke their own language over loudspeakers. We wondered what they were talking about.

Sometimes the German U-boats were attacking us. We changed course every fifty-nine seconds to prevent the Germans’ submarines from getting a good shot at the ship. The Dutch crew used to set off depth charges. They were so powerful they would rock the whole ship. I think there were about 600 of us servicemen or boys on board ship. It took about five days and six nights before we landed in Greenwich, England. I can remember us staying out of the harbor until they cleared the circle of mines surrounding the harbor.

We then went to the old army garrison at Aldershot, England. It was quite a sight. What an experience for a young soldier from the wheat fields of Saskatchewan. As I recall, we went to Blackdown, which was not too far from Aldershot, for a refresher course.

But, as it turns out, they needed some troops for D-Day. They said we could choose any regiment that we wished, or they would place us where they wanted. I thought, “Well, I joined in Regina, so I will join the Regina Rifles, 3rd Division, 7th Brigade.” We went to a holding place in southern England to prepare for the invasion on June 6, 1944.

On the morning of D-Day, we waited to get into the landing craft tanks (LCT’s). It was a very frightening time for a young guy like me. We boarded the landing craft and set sail for France. It was not really a sailboat; it was powered by a gasoline engine.

We landed on Juno Beach in Normandy and started to disembark from our landing craft. I thought, “If there was a hell on earth or water, this must be it.” I lost a lot of my buddies that fateful day. When I look back on it now, it makes me wonder what it was all about. Their lives were taken at a young age. Why I was spared I’ll never know. God must have had his hands on me. For some reason I came through it. I was not eighteen until June 27, 1944.

After we landed at Caen, we began to do what we were trained to do in Orillia and Camp Borden. We had a few tough battles for a few days; after that it was trying to keep in touch with the “Jerries”.

We went through France and from there to Belgium. I was then in Ghent, Belgium, New Years Day, 1945. What a New Year celebration that was – not like Time Square in New York. It was no dance party, but I came through it OK.

We had a few hard battles in the Dardanelles, and I came through that battle again. We then went out of Belgium and into Holland. We didn't run into much resistance right then. We were in Utrecht where we stayed for a while. We were also in Ede and from there we went to Nijmegen, Holland where we spent the fall of 1944 and the early months of 1945. We were in bunkers like ground hogs all winter. It was very cold. We stood on guard two hours on and two hours off. There was no sense in taking your clothes off because it was too cold, so a lot of the times we even had our great coat on to stay warm and try to get a few minutes of shut eye.

We were ready for the big push in the spring of 1945. The artillery shelled the German positions for 72 hours straight without a let-up. The Germans had blown all the dikes up, and the whole area was flooded. We had to go in with amphibious tanks called Water Buffaloes. I was driving one of these.

We went in, and the German soldiers surrendered in numbers I could not keep track of. I used to load them onto our tanks and take them back to the Prisoner of War camp behind the 'theatre of war' where the action was. They were so happy to get out of the fighting they sang all the way back to the POW camp where they were held. They were then shipped to Canada's POW camp. There were a lot of very young guys and older men. They were sixteen to seventy years of age.

When that offensive was over, we went out on rest for a while on leave to England. I went to Leeds in Yorkshire County where I met a wonderful English girl who worked for F. W. Woolworth & Co. We went to a picture show and ate some popcorn. When the show was over, she took me to her mom and dad's home where she introduced me to them. They were a really nice family. They invited me to spend my leave with them. I got to know them really well.

Now it was time to catch the train back to Dover for my boat ride across the English Channel and back to the lines in Holland. They used to give us nine pounds for a nine-day leave. I never did get a chance to go back there again as army put Leeds out of bounds to Canadian troops. I sure felt bad because I got to love that young lady very much – but that's the way things are.

I got back to my regiment in Utrecht, Holland where we started off on our offensive again. After a couple of weeks on the front lines, a couple of our Bren Gun Carrier drivers were killed when they ran over some land mines. They needed to replace those two buddies of ours, so they asked for volunteers. There was a guy by the name of Leese. He was red-headed and a really good soldier. We both volunteered to drive these Bren Gun Carriers with flame throwers on them. They were used for going into enemy lines, shooting flames, and then the boys on foot would advance behind us and take up positions, going a few yards at a time. It was kind of hot in the Carriers, but it beat walking.

The flame throwers had an 80-gallon tank on the back of the Carrier with a flame thrower up in front next to me, the operator. It was usually the corporal or the sergeant who operated the flame gun. With a little wind the flame would fire 200 feet and 150 feet against the wind. It contained a chemical that was very sticky when it hit its object. It was like a gooey gel. I never did know what it was until years later. This chemical was made by Dow Chemical. If you held your finger on the trigger for twenty seconds steady, it would have emptied all 80 gallons. We therefore only used it in short bursts. I don't even like to think about it, but those memories will stay with me the rest of my life. War is cruel.

We crossed the Rhine River on what they called a Pontoon bridge that was like a bunch of buoys laid side by side across the Rhine. Bridging was laid on top of the buoys. This work was done by the Royal Canadian Engineers. We all worked together doing our own assignments or jobs.

Now it was time to rest for a while in Kleve, Germany where we set up a makeshift camp and stayed for awhile.

We then flew over to London by DC3 Dakota airplane for another nine-day leave. It was better than going by boat for twenty miles across the English Channel, which was the roughest piece of water I have ever been on in a ship or ferry.

Leese and I left by train from London, England bound for Edinburgh via "The Flying Scotsman". That's what they called the passenger train. As I recall, it moved over the rails at a fast clip. We landed in Edinburgh where we stayed in hostels for servicemen. We went out to the streets to see the sights and noticed there were many beautiful Scottish lassies who treated us like royalty, when I reflect on it now. I went up the hill to the old Edinburgh castle which was a sight to behold for a couple of young soldiers from the prairies of Saskatchewan. The days flew by, and it was time to board "The Flying Scotsman" again back to London.

We returned once again to the front lines. It was a matter of trying to catch up with the "Jerries" who were retreating and trying to hold on till the last straw.

We finally landed in Emden, Germany where we went on reconnaissance looking for the last Germans. We took off out of Delfzijl, Holland, (formerly spelled Delfzyl) across the border from Emden, Germany. We went down the road for two miles, made a right turn, and continued along the road until we came across some disabled German vehicles that were blocking the road. We stopped and noticed little broken pieces of pavement in the road. Sergeant Preston and I got out and looked under a chunk of broken asphalt. There were a bunch of land mines. We had to turn around and start back to Delfzijl.

Just then the German 88-millimeter tank guns opened up on us. There was a field of tall grass and a bit of a ridge. They couldn't get a real bead on us to get a direct hit. My carrier was the last one of the four heading back to Delfzijl, Holland. When we made a left turn to go up the road, a couple of Germans opened fire from the ditch with anti-tank guns. One hit just in front of the carrier – enough to break some steel in the back of the vehicle, but I just kept driving.

Two Bren Gunners by the name of Smutts and Novak jumped out because they thought the "Jerries" had made a direct hit. I didn't realize this until we got back to our headquarters, which was when I realized they weren't in the back of the Bren Gun Carrier. They were taken prisoner by the Germans.

It was now time out for rest and regrouping for a few days. The Perth Regiment from the 5th Division took over from us in the front lines, and they captured Smutts and Novak back again. They returned to our unit support company of the Regina Rifle Regiment of the 3rd Division which I belonged to.

While we were resting in Delfzijl, the German naval gun boats started to shell our positions with 18-inch naval shells. We took shelter in a basement of a big house. The basement walls were about two-and-a-half feet thick – just like a bunker. I guess they were built that way to stand up to allied bombing. One of the shells landed close to the big house, and the concussion came through the basement and killed one of our guys.

It makes me wonder why this guy was taken. He used to write a letter to his wife and kids back in Saskatchewan every week. He was quite a bit older than us other fellows. We used to call him 'Pop'. He was one great guy. I guess his number was up, and it was his turn to go.

We went back on the offense again and backed the Germans up until they surrendered on May 8, 1945. Sergeant Preston, our section sergeant, was killed by a sniper while he was out directing us in bringing the carrier around the corner in Emden, Germany.

It was now time to set up our headquarters because this is where we started our duty as occupation troops. It's funny because the big buildings where we originally set up our barracks was not bombed flat, whereas all other building in Emden were flattened to the ground. It wasn't until I got up on top of the roof and saw a red cross painted on the roof, did I realize it had been a hospital. I still can't figure out how they could bomb so accurately so as not to hit that building. Maybe, I thought, God had something to do with why it was spared, but one will never know why. I know that a young soldier like me, only nineteen years old, knew that it was a miracle.

Once again, it was off to Great Britain for a nine-day leave. It was back to good, old bonny Scotland for a well-deserved rest and holiday. We had a great nine-day leave before we returned to Emden, Germany for our occupation duties, making sure the German people stayed in certain zones for rationing purposes and keeping them under tight security for their own protection.

The German people, on the whole, were very nice. They didn't want a war any more that we did, but they were forced into it by Hitler and his followers.

There was one German soldier who was put on trial for war crimes. His charge was that his troops were responsible for the cold-blooded murder of thirteen Winnipeg rifle soldiers. His name was General Kurt Meyer. We used to take him back and forth to his trial until the final day when he was charged and sentenced to die. He was allowed to answer in his German tongue because that was his native language, and he was on trial for his life. He was found guilty and given the death penalty.

On the eve of his execution, we had to go around and check citizens in Emden. We went in pairs and checked door to door to see if everything was "A" O.K. On one door that we knocked on, the man said to come in. When we entered the house, there hanging on the wall was a 1938 Wheat Pool calendar. I asked them where they got the calendar, and they told me that they used to live in Wolseley, Saskatchewan where they farmed. They went back to Germany with their family for a visit. Because the German government knew that there was a likelihood of a war breaking out, they would not let them return to Saskatchewan.

I knew some of the people they knew around Indian Head and Qu'Appelle where I grew up and went to school. I had a good talk with them, and I enjoyed the conversation very much, so you can see it's a big world but a small one when it comes to some things. Anyway, Kurt Meyer was given life in prison where he spent some of his prison time in New Brunswick. Then he returned to Germany where I understand he passed away.

In May 1946, we got ready to go back to England and then on back home to Canada. We left Germany and landed in England where we stayed for a few days we boarded the Ile de France for Canada. We sailed out of Portsmouth, England and landed in Halifax five or six days later where we boarded the train for Ontario and Regina, Saskatchewan. We had another leave before we departed for Regina. I got my discharge on June 3, 1946, and I turned 21 years old on June 27.

We went down to the clothing store in Regina and got all decked out in civilian clothes. It was so funny wearing army clothes and to be back in 'civies'. We were very proud of our new clothes, and I felt like a new man.

Mervin stayed in Regina for a few days before going home to Qu'Appelle where he settled down. He got a job with a construction company digging dug-outs for the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration. They were large dug-outs for the water supply for cattle and horses. The name of the man he worked for was Pete Campbell from Qu'Appelle. He was a good man to work for. Mervin also did custom combining in Texas. Upon returning to Canada, he started working for a man named Bob Moore. he drove a big caterpillar with a cutting brush. This turned out to be work that Mervin enjoyed very much. He did that type of work for about four years and also worked for farmers. Mervin passed away on February 19, 2014. ■

Richard Sydney Jukes was the son of Thomas and Annie Jukes of Wolverhampton, England. His father was a publican. Richard was born on October 26, 1891, in Coyntor, Shropshire, England. The Jukes family consisted of four boys and three girls. British census data show that he was an apprentice tailor in 1911. Immigration records show that he arrived in Halifax on March 29, 1915 aboard the Scandinavian. Private Richard Sydney Jukes' name appears on the Bounty Honour Roll. He was 23 years old when he enlisted in Edmonton on November 25, 1915, as a member of the 14th Battalion. He listed his occupation as an engineer. Richard embarked from Halifax for England on April 18, 1916. He was posted to France on June 8, 1916. Only 24 years of age, he was killed in action nineteen days later near Zillebeke in West Flanders, Belgium. The village is about two kilometres from the famous battlefield at Ypres. He is commemorated at the famous Menin Gate along with 55,000 other soldiers who lost their lives in the Ypres Salient and who have no known grave.

Walter Nelson “Nels” Julseth and Ethel May Wood

A Canadian Veteran and His War Bride

Nels was born in Loverna, Alberta, on December 3, 1919. He joined the RCAF in May 1941 and trained in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan. He left for Liverpool, England, in December 1941. After postings and training courses in Syerston, Balderton, Leeds and Leeming, he declined an offer to be an instructor for Air Frame Mechanics and was posted to the 408 Squadron at RAF Topcliffe, close to Thirsk. At one of his postings, because of the blackouts during the war, he remembered staying in a 40' long stable with only two 60-watt light bulbs in it for the men to shave. He also remembered a thick Yorkshire accent telling him to “put wood inth ‘ole luv”, meaning to close the door. Life in England was very different for a prairie boy.

Ethel was born in Sunderland, England, on January 13, 1924. She joined the Women’s Auxiliary Air Force in the spring of 1942 after her father signed the paperwork. Originally from Newcastle, she was posted at RAF Topcliffe near Thirsk where she drove ambulances and Commanding Officers’ cars. It was at Topcliffe that she met Walter Nelson Julseth.

Their first “date” was Ethel driving Nels around the base in a heavy fog looking for a Lancaster bomber that had not returned from a mission. After their first meeting, Nels convinced her to accompany him to a dance, even after warning her he had two left feet and calling her “Red” because of her auburn hair. She later admitted that he did indeed have two left feet, but he must have done something right, as they were married in July 1944 at Barmby Parish Church, Barmby on the River.

Nels left England in late 1944, celebrating Christmas on the Queen Mary and arriving home on New Year’s Day 1945. Ethel followed in May 1945 on the Britannic with many other war brides. She almost returned immediately to England after coming all the way to Saskatchewan because Nels was late to meet her train. He had met up with some war buddies and got a little sidetracked. Fortunately, he convinced her to stay and they were married for over fifty years. They farmed in Plenty, Saskatchewan, and had six kids. They stayed in the Girvin/Craik, Saskatchewan area with Nels’ parents for a while before purchasing land in Plenty, Saskatchewan. Nels remained an active Legion Member after being discharged from the RCAF.

Ethel travelled back to England to visit family numerous times but was able to return to the church where they were married in the fall of 1999. Also on that trip, she was given an escorted tour around RAF Topcliffe, which was, and is still, an active base. They were more than happy to show her around once they found out she was stationed there during the war.

Ethel remained an active member of the War Bride Association throughout her life. In 2006, she was able to make the trip on The War Bride Train to Pier 21 in Halifax to celebrate the 60th Anniversary of the war brides coming to Canada.

Nels passed away on February 3, 1995 and Ethel passed away on January 9, 2015.

LENTON, Richard Roderick “Dick”

WWII

Richard Roderick Lenton was born in Birch Lake, Saskatchewan on September 23, 1911. His brothers and sisters called him “Dickie Bird”, a name given to him by his mother because he always played the mouth organ “like a bird”. He has always been called Dick by the family.

Dick joined the Saskatoon Light Infantry along with brother Wilfrid in 1939. He served in England, Italy, and the Mediterranean during World War II. It was in England that he met and courted Rose E. Pitts. Dick and Rose were married in 1942 but when he returned to Canada after the war, Rose remained in England.

Richard met and Matilda (Tilly) Watch and they lived happily in Regina for many years. Rose eventually came to Canada but did not stay long. Sadly, all this did was separate him and Tilly. After Rose went back to England, Dick lived alone with his beloved pets.

Dick and Wilfrid worked together in their younger days, hauling logs by horse, building bridges and roads, and farming. Dick lost the sight of his left eye when he was hit by a piece of steel when he worked at IPSCO, a steel company in Regina.

Dick loved animals, and when he could no longer have pets, he filled his apartment with pictures of animals. He loved music, especially the fiddle. He loved little kids, but he did not have any children of his own. He always had a few coins in his pocket for his nieces and nephews.

Dick lived a long life and passed away on October 12, 2006, at the age of 95.

LENTON, Wilfrid

WWI

Wilfrid Lenton, Henry and Lucy's second child, was born on October 15, 1878, in Oundle, Northamptonshire, England. He attended Thrapston High School, attaining first place in his exams in 1896, his last year there. From 1896 to 1898, he was a pupil-teacher at the Rockingham Road Board School where he worked for his Teacher's Certificate, excelling in his studies. When war broke out in South Africa, he left his books, enlisted as a Trooper and sailed for the Table Bay in early 1899. After serving as a Trooper and acting non-commissioned officer under various generals, he received a commission as First Lieutenant and went to Johannesburg.

Wilfrid immigrated to Canada about six months after the war ended and entered the Ontario Veterinary College, graduating in 1905 with a gold medal for best general examination, first prizes in pathology and physiology, second in anatomy, third in disease and treatment and honours in three other subjects.

He practiced as a veterinarian in Belmont until July 1906 when he was offered the position of assistant veterinarian at the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Arkansas. In July 1907, he was made veterinarian to that institution and assistant in animal pathology. Later, he took charge of the Department of Veterinary Science. He was also a member of several boards. Known at the University as Professor Lenton, he drew up a bill covering all points of animal sanitation which the legislature of 1907-08 enacted into a law.

It was around that time that he started courting Gertrude Eva Besso, adopted daughter of Charles and Alena Drummond-Hay. No records of a formal adoption were found and Gertrude kept her birth surname until she married.

Wilfrid and Eva were married in the Parish Church in Belmont, Manitoba on October 9, 1907. They had five children: Wilfrid Drummond (August 23, 1908), Ethel Rebecca (April 24, 1910), Richard Roderick (September 23, 1911), Eric Kenneth (June 8, 1913), and Lucy Gertrude (February 6, 1915).

Wilfrid and Eva took up residence in Fayetteville, Arkansas where Wilfrid worked at the University of Arkansas for a wage of $1500 per annum. Their first two children, Wilfrid and Ethel, were born there. They returned to Canada after Ethel was born, settling in Junor, Saskatchewan where the other children, Richard, Eric, and Lucy, were born. The family lived in a log house valued at $300 in 1910 and $800 in 1921. A family story is that the roof leaked and Wilfrid, Ethel and a bag of flour were put under the table to keep them dry when it rained.

Wilfrid joined the Veterinary Corp of the Canadian Overseas Expeditionary Force in December 1914 and was sent to France in 1915. He received the commission of Captain and was awarded the Military Cross. Eva and the children went to Belmont and remained there until after the war. Veterinary units and over seven thousand horses sailed with Canada's First Contingent to England in October 1914. At its greatest strength, the Canadian Corps had more than 23, 500 horses (from Library and Archived Canada).

The family returned to Saskatchewan in 1919. He farmed and raised cattle. In 1927, Wilfrid purchased two acres of land in Medstead and built a two-storey house there. The front gate was a popular place for picture taking in the years that followed.

Wilfrid started working for the Rural Municipality of Medstead, a position he held for about fourteen years. He was well-known in the Medstead district, sat on various committees, was a devoted church member and a member of the Masonic Lodge. He passed away on September 6, 1943, at the age of 65.

Eva was also active in her community, especially the church, and was a devoted mother and grandmother. She passed away on June 22, 1948, at the age of 61.

LENTON, Wilfrid Drummond

WWII

Wilfrid Drummond Lenton was born in Fayetteville, Arkansas, USA on August 23, 1907, and moved with his parents and sister Ethel to Saskatchewan in 1910. He joined the Saskatoon Light Infantry with his brother Richard on September 17, 1939 and served overseas during World War II.

Irene Maria Victoria Lane, daughter of Victor Lane and Maria Sophia Maghdelena Meersman, was born on February 5, 1920 in Loverna, Saskatchewan, but moved to Belgium with her family in 1931. At the outbreak of World War II, the family was forced to flee to England to escape the Nazi rule. While in England, Irene took a job building Blenheim bombers. Her job was to install the windows and radio antennae. Irene quit that job when she married her Canadian Army sergeant. Wilfrid and Irene met in Medstead and Wilfrid started courting her in England when he stopped to visit the Lane family who were friends when they all lived in Saskatchewan.

Wilfrid and Irene were married in Shrewsbury, Shropshire on December 16, 1942. Irene returned to Canada as a war bride, bringing their first-born daughter with her. They rejoined Wilfrid in North Battleford and they began their life together, living in various places in Saskatchewan throughout the years.

Wilfrid and Irene had five children: Cecilia Elianne (December 10, 1943), Michael Roy (November 26, 1946), Shirley Anne (December 2, 1954), Darrell Wayne (May 17, 1956), and Virgil Lynne (December 17, 1958).

Wilfrid had several occupations throughout his lifetime. He was a policeman in North Battleford and Meadow Lake, had a milk route, worked for the timber board in Meadow Lake, was an agent for the Federal Department of Indian Affairs (1954-1973) in Big River, Fort la Corne (near Prince Albert), Red Pheasant (near Battleford), retiring from Wynyard. He also worked as an insurance salesman and a night watchman at Clear Lake Sawmills in Prince George.

Wilfrid liked to read and play cribbage, whist, chess, doing crossword puzzles, marking kites from newspapers and willows every spring and watching the soaps. He was a good Christian, always supporting his church and staunchly supported The Royal Canadian Legion.

Irene was a homemaker most of her life. She enjoyed reading, sewing, ceramics, and other crafts. She had several dogs over the years and at one time had a huge collection of elephants. She had a keen sense of humour and cared deeply for her family.

Wilfrid and Irene parted in 1970, after 28 years of marriage. Wilfrid moved to Prince George, BC where he met a lady named Mary. They were married in 1982 and made their home in Grand Forks.

He joined the 1st Motor Machine Gun Corps on January 20, 1916, serving on the Western Front and at Vimy Ridge and the battle of Amiens. Malcolm died of wounds in Boulogne, France, on August 15, 1918. ## McGERRIGLE, Kenneth Alexander “Ken”

WWII

Ken was born on May 25, 1926, in Edam, Saskatchewan and moved to Harlan, Saskatchewan with his family at the age of three.

He came to Harlan with his mother, Ethel, and his siblings, Mae and Gordon, via train from Glaslyn to St. Walburg where they were met by the Pepper family who brought them to Frenchman Butte by team and wagon. Archie Wagner met them there and completed their journey with them to Harlan to reunite them with Mr. John McGerrigle who had been hired to teach at the Harlan School. Ken's brother Don, who was born later in Harlan, completed their family. The McGerrigle family lived in an old house on the school property that also served as the local Post Office ran by Mrs. McGerrigle. Later the house was replaced with a newer version that was eventually moved to the farm where Mrs. McGerrigle continued to run the Post Office.

Ken attended the Harlan school for eight years; he had his first job there doing all their janitorial work during the last three years he was in attendance. At the age of sixteen, he travelled to Trail, BC and stayed in his cousin's basement on a cot and worked with him cleaning basements after a flood then went to work in a lead burning smelter cleaning tanks, after about a year his company transferred him to a Tungsten mine in Hazelton, BC where he worked with an electrician and shared accommodations with two other men in a bunk house. He spent his time at the mine wiring shacks and only once had to go down the mine to string lights. While home on vacation the mine closed so Ken did some thrashing for local farms then went South to Cabri and Hazelet area to Combine.

In January 1945, he enrolled in the army where he was mustered in Dundurn for the Royal Edmonton Regiment. He took his basic training in Peterborough and advanced training at Petawawa, Ontario. His regiment had been sent home on embarkation leave when the war ended in Europe. Ken along with several other members of his regiment, signed up for the Japanese war and they were sent to Vernon, BC for further training. Ken's regiment was there until the atomic bomb was dropped in Japan and ended World War II after which they were transported back to Shilo, Manitoba and later discharged. Ken came back to Harlan and bought the Stevenson place. Ken and Gordon worked in partnership on their farms for many years with stints at side jobs in a sawmill in the bush and working at the Lloydminster Post Office during the Christmas rush. He also delivered mail from Lloydminster for the Harlan and surrounding area Post Offices. He hired out to combine for other local farmers and even did a couple years of fill in relief running the ferry across the North Saskatchewan River.

Ken and Gordon played ball on the local Harlan ball team most Sundays, eventually the team petered out, so they joined the Alcurve team where Ken met Nancy Jacobson. They were married in 1961 and proceeded to start their own family having three girls: Heather, Sharon and Colleen. Soon the little house they were living in became too small so with the help of his brother Gordon and his brother-in-law, Calvert Johnson, they milled lumber and built the current house which the family moved into in 1968. Over the ensuing years there were many trips to Frenchman Butte for Legion meetings and events, Christmas concerts and parades; many fishing trips to Worthington and Amyot Lake and a couple trips to BC for visits with Nancy's brother Ron and his family. Sunday dinners at the farm always included as many family members as possible followed by many a Canasta or crib game.

Once Ken and Nancy retired from farming, they took a much-loved trip to Sweden and several bus tours throughout Western Canada and into the States. Sunday dinners continued on with their children and grandchildren always making up extra seats at the table. Most summer days Ken could be found in their garden tending enough produce to sustain several families. His participation in the Frenchman Butte Legion increased and he became a member of the Museum association doing rope making displays for the school kids visits. Many a grandchild made an extended stay at the farm with Grandma Nancy and Grandpa Ken always knowing no matter what there was always a bed available if it was needed.

Ken passed away at his residence in Harlan District, Harlan, Saskatchewan on May 12, 2021, at the age of 94.

McGILLIVRAY, Allan Robert

WWII

Allan was born on March 30, 1920, in Central Butte, Saskatchewan, the son of Jack and Lulu McGillivray.

At age 21, in the spring of 1941, after seeding, Allan went to the Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting office in Regina and applied to join the RCAF Air Crew. In the fall, after a poor harvest, he got the call for compulsory training and in November began training as a pilot observer in Brandon, Manitoba. After basic training in March, Allan was posted to bombing and gunnery school in Dafoe, Saskatchewan. In May, they went to Initial Training School in Saskatoon where he was chosen to go to Navigation School. In July, he was posted in Regina to learn practical navigation. They flew training in the two-engined, reliable Avro Anson. Halfway through, they were packed off to Pearce, Alberta. They completed the course in October 1942 and were awarded their wings, some as sergeant, but six of them were given a commission rank (2nd Lieutenant).

In mid-November, they were told they were going overseas and spent three weeks in Halifax before being marched down to a train not knowing where they were going. To their surprise, they ended up in New York harbour boarding with (10 000 troops in all) the Queen Elizabeth, the largest and fastest liner afloat. After six days at sea, a pair of Spitfires escorted them into a shore train. They travelled through the blacked-out countryside to the south coast of England. Ration cards were a necessity for troops in the food-starved England. They spent some time training until the first of April 1943 when they went out training in the Tiger Moth aircraft to get used to finding their way over the different countryside in England.

In May 1943, Allan was promoted to Flying Officer and more training courses completed, they were told they would be assigned to an Operational Unit. In June, they were sent to Northern Scotland. Their flight crew was assembled (Canadian pilot, navigator), and bomb aimer with British wireless operator and rear gunner. They trained for night bombing in the large twin engine Wellington bomber.

In August, they finished training and were considered ready for operations, but as most operational squadrons were now using four-engine aircrafts, their aircrew was posted to a Conversion Unit. It was now November and their conversion to the Halifax bomber was complete and with two new crew members, mid gunner and flight engineer, they were posted directly to operation squadron #158.

It was just over a year since he landed in England, and delays continued as operations were converting from the Halifax MKII to the MKIII and in January 1944 the squadron appeared on the operational board. After several trips without incident, on March 24, on a bombing run to Berlin, the Squadron came upon strong winds that broke up the formation. Their Halifax was struck by cannon fire and one engine was set on fire. They got another blast which knocked out two more of the engines and were put out of control. They were ordered to put on their parachutes and abandon the plane at once. After struggling to open the escape hatch. He just stuck his feet out and the slipstream did the rest.

Allan landed safely in a hay field in enemy territory and there was no sign of the aircraft anywhere. He came upon his bomb aimer, McDonagh in a ditch with a mangled ankle from a cannon shell. He was unable to walk. In the darkened night, Allan found his way to a village and by early morning was able to arouse a village family. They alerted the authorities and Mac was taken by stretcher into town where four of their crew were rounded up and as it turned out, they were the only four that survived. They were taken by rail to Berlin, then with others captured, on to an interrogation camp near Frankfurt. We got off the train at Frankfurt to a scene of complete destruction and confusion after it had been bombed the previous week. The civilians were hostile to them, spitting and throwing rocks.

They arrived at Dulga Luft interrogation centre with other allied air crews. They were assigned separate, very small, cells that were kept uncomfortably hot. The food was poor and there was not much of it. He was desperately hungry all the time. Every few days, he was taken out for interrogation and then back to the cell again. After two weeks or more, they were released into a holding cage. After two days, they began the long journey to the permanent POW camp Stalag Luft 1 situated on the Baltic Sea. Eight were crowded into a small compartment for three long days on the rail. The POW camp they arrived at was probably one of the best in Germany. The rooms were fairly large with three double bunks, a table, and a stove. After a short while, they had running cold water. There were about 2 000 prisoners of war, 1 400 of them American. The room leader was an English pilot captured by the Italians and was beginning his fifth year as a POW.

In the summer of 1944, morale was high as word of the invasion had raised hopes that the war would be over by Christmas. But this was not to be. By Christmas, the Red Cross parcels ceased to come through, German rations were reduced and coal rations were reduced rather than increased for the winter.

January 1945, everyone was hungry and cold but they were the lucky ones as many of the eastern camps were being marched across the country away from the advancing Russian armies. By the first of April, there was a marked improvement in the behaviour of the German guards as they realized the war was lost.

On May 1, the night before the German guard had locked up the barracks and closed the shutters as usual. The morning saw they had all disappeared into thin air. The senior allied officer took command of the camp and by the afternoon the Russians appeared. There was no sign of motorized vehicles at all just a stream of horses drawn wagons and buggies. Rumours of them going back to Britain through Russia was not appealing. On May 8, VE Day marked the end of the war and the next day, a fleet of American planes began coming to airlift the POW's back to Britain. What a thrill it was to see Britain with light shining all along, as it had never been as long as the war was on. He arrived back to Canada in July 1945 and was discharged a few weeks later.

Allan passed away on December 5, 2016.

MOHNINGER, Jacob “Jack”

WWII

Jacob “Jack” Mohninger was born on December 27, 1921, on a farm near St. Brieux, Saskatchewan. He was of German and possibly Russian decent having been born in Canada to German immigrants whose history included the Volga Germans who had spent generations cultivating land in Russia. He attended school near the family farm at Little Moose Lake and received his grade 8 which was the highest education available in the area at that time. He was one of seven children, all of whom worked on their family farm. Later he and his brothers hired themselves out to neighbouring farms to earn extra money for the family.

On November 4, 1941, he volunteered for active service early during World War II with the Canadian Army and served all through Europe receiving numerous medals. He received the 1939-1945 Star, France and Germany Star, Defence Medal, Canadian Volunteer Service Medal with Clasp and War Medal 1939-1945.

Eventually, at the rank of Private, he received an honourable discharge returning home in November 1945. Unfortunately, his mother had died one month before and the family had been unable to get word to him and his brothers.

Jack met Mary Nagy soon after coming back and apparently it was love at first sight. They married July 2, 1948, and in time moved onto their own land. There they would begin a family welcoming nine children. He gave up farming in 1970 and moved his family to Prince Albert, Saskatchewan and then eventually to Lloydminster, Saskatchewan where he found employment in the oil patch operating a backhoe. He worked until his retirement at age 62 with some support from Veterans Affairs. He enjoyed this break greatly, but it was not to last. He died six years later of cancer at the age of 67, in June 1988.

Jack had an amazing and brilliant mind and had there been other opportunities in his life there is no telling what he could have accomplished. He had seen so many wonders and terrors in this world but from it all, gained so much wisdom. There had been many trials in this man’s life, but what is remembered is that he was quick to smile, faster to shoot out a joke or simply amuse you with his witty demeanor. Jack refused to talk about his years in active service and resisted any questions from his curious children. However, after a chance meeting, at the Legion, with an old army buddy he had served with, and after a couple of beverages, the two talked late into the night. His youngest children, still at home, sat at their feet in rapture, not wanting to make a sound in case he remembered they were there and sent them off to bed. They spoke of laughter but also of unshed tears; of men who had made it onto the ship home and of those who did not and why. That night, Jack freed himself of so much that had been going on inside.

Jack loved his children even though nine could almost run him over really. He lived to see many of his grandchildren and the pride in his eyes was undeniable. He loved cards, especially Kaiser and cribbage. He would play long into the night and passed the love of those games and of family time onto his children. He was also a shark at checkers and legend says he was a champion amongst his ranks while overseas. The leaves and branches of the family tree he planted are now immense and although he has been gone for so many years, his legacy and memory live on. His family is immensely proud of his service to this country and for the freedom we all enjoy today. We Remember; we will always remember.

MOORE, Wesley James “Wes”

WWII

Wes was born on November 7, 1915. He married Elsie Hodgson on January 7, 1938. He joined the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps and served the United Kingdom and Continental Europe. He drove a supply truck in France and Germany. He narrowly escaped death when he was standing near a truck, talking with others, then walked away, when a shell landed near the truck, killing the men near the truck. Wes rose in rank to Lance Corporal, and was discharged in July 1945. Elsie and their two oldest sons, Ron and Dale, had moved to Manor, so Wes made his home there doing various jobs. He worked in the Post Office with Aubrey Beatty whom he succeeded as Post Master. They also raised two more children: Perry born in 1950, and Michelle in 1956. Wes passed away on July 19, 1994.

MORASH, Howard Herbert

WWII

Howard was born in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, in 1922. He joined the Canadian Engineers and served in Canada. He passed away in 2001.

MORRIS, Brian Charles

RCMP

Brian was born in Calgary, Alberta on December 24, 1948. He served in the RCMP “F” Division from 1978 to 2004 in Fort Qu’Appelle, Rose Valley, twice in Melville, Eastend and North Battleford. Brian has been very involved in each community he has been posted to. He helped start two Kinsmen clubs, coached minor hockey and baseball. He served as a DARE officer (Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education) in North Battleford and Melville, and to this day is very proud of the honour, and very pleased when past students, who are now adults with children of their own, recognize him. Brian has served on many local committees from local museum boards to sports clubs, etc. After his retirement in 2004, he became more involved with R.G. Combe Legion in Melville and filled various roles within the organization. He is presently the long-standing Poppy Chairman and works hard to promote Remembrance Day to the local schools. Each year, the number of students participating via contests or attending local Remembrance Day events increases. Brian’s wife jokes that the Melville Legion Hall gets priority over the family home when upgrades or repairs are needed. However, Brian’s family is very proud of his devotion to the Legion and community. Brian is a chip off the old block and his dad, Chuck, would be proud indeed.

PILLER, Roderick “Roddie”

WWII

Roderick Piller, or Roddie, as he was affectionately known by family and friends, was born on the family farm near Grayson, Saskatchewan on December 20, 1924. In an interview, he mentioned that he went to ‘the cow barns’ in Regina where he enlisted in the Canadian Army in 1943. Rod said, “They had nice showers instead of the small tub on the farm and they had flush toilets. It was quite a change and quite strange to strip with fifty other guys to go for a medical or shower with ten other guys, but it didn’t take long to get over the shyness, though.” After completing basic training in Prince Albert, he went to Camp Borden in Ontario for advanced training in the tank corps. Roddie found the tanks a little too confusing and asked to become a dispatch rider. After a while, he was not sure which was worse or more dangerous.

After advanced training, he shipped out to England, landing at the Firth of Forth in Scotland. Eventually, he was sent to Italy with the Nova Scotia Regiment, an infantry outfit. There, they trained under the shadow of Mount Etna, at Avalino near Naples. As part of the Canadian Army 1st Division, he went to the front lines at Ortona, and their division saw some of the fiercest fighting in the Italian campaign. The battle, that lasted 21 days, was fought between two battalions of elite German Fallschirmjager (paratroops) from the German 1st Parachute Division and the Canadian troops from the 1st Infantry Division among others. Roddie said, “I remember the stone houses. We had to go through them rather than up the streets of the towns because of the snipers. And a bad thing was the booby traps. Another bad thing was going out on night patrol not knowing if you were going into a minefield. It was fierce fighting. The Germans didn’t want to give up Italy because it kept the allies tied up.”

By January 1945, the Italian campaign was over, and his regiment sailed to Calais where they began the long march to Arnhem. There they engaged the German forces occupying the Netherlands. In Holland, at a place called Apeldoorn, along with his regiment, the West Nova Scotia Regiment, they liberated the people at a place called Woudhuis (Forest House). A family that he helped, at the time, reached out to him after the war to thank him for his gallantry. As the letter was written in Dutch, it was several years before he could have it translated, after which they corresponded for many years. The regiment was at Scheveningen on the North Sea when VE Day dawned. On the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the Liberation of Holland, he and his wife went to Amsterdam along with many other servicemen. While there, Rod participated in ceremonies and parades and was able to explore the country in a relaxed setting.

Rod volunteered to be part of the occupational force in Europe after the war ended. He joined the Provost Corps and spent one year in Germany as part of a force that was trying to control the black market that tried to sell everything from boots to trucks to ships. In December 1946, he returned to Canada and would receive his discharge in February 1947. Another quote from his interview, “I wouldn’t have missed it, but I wouldn’t do it again for all the money in the world. I shouldn’t say that because maybe I would, if it was needed. Again, maybe I say that, because I came home in one piece, including my mind.” Roddie felt that serving in World War II was one of the most important things he did in his life.

Roddie married in 1950 and raised five children. He worked all over western Canada and the Northwest Territories. He had been born and raised on the farm and if he could have made a decent living at it, he’d rather farm than anything else. His roots were in the land, and he never strayed too far from it.

While living in Calgary, he served in the Provost Corps active reserve. Roddie was active in The Royal Canadian Legion from 1957 until his death on June 25, 1999. He was on the Board of Directors in Camrose, Alberta serving as 2nd Vice-President and Vice-President. He was also in the Colour Party.

Roddie shared his gift of music by playing the fiddle that he learned at the age of twelve. He played by ear and even made up his own compositions. After retirement, he served his community by volunteering and helping others. He was a man of honour and integrity. At his death, he left his wife, Agnes, of 48 years, four children, being predeceased by his oldest son, seven grandchildren and one great grandchild to cherish his memory.

WWII

Gordon was born in Canwood, Saskatchewan, in 1924. He joined the Cameron Highlands at the age of nineteen and took his training in Yarmouth, NS, and Borden, ON. He was sent to Holland as a stretcher bearer until the end of the war. Gordon passed away in 1987.

REMOLE, Douglas William

WWII

Douglas William Remole's parents, Roy Halverson Remole and Minnie Catherine Remole, were married in Outlook, Saskatchewan. They came from Norway to Bounty, Saskatchewan where they set up a homestead in 1911. The couple moved to Vanscoy in 1928 and in 1937 to Carstairs, Alberta. Their son Douglas William attended Vanscoy School for grades 1 to 6 and Carstairs for Grades 7 to 10.

Douglas, age 19, identified Vanscoy as his home address when he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force on October 15, 1942 in Calgary. He was a truck driver and a student at the time. He listed hockey, swimming and hunting as his favourite pastimes.

He had served 494 days, including 117 days overseas with Lincolnshire Squadron 630 of the RAF, when he was killed in a tragic accident. In total darkness on the night of February 20, 1944, Rear Gunner Remole and the crew of a four-engine Lancaster III bomber took off at 23:43 hours from the RAF airfield at East Kirkley. The aircraft, which was carrying 4,000 pounds of bombs, crashed 200 yards from the airfield and was completely destroyed by the resulting explosion. All six crewmembers were killed. An inquiry determined that pilot inexperience may have been the cause of the accident.

Rev. Norris, a Canadian chaplain, conducted a full-service funeral for Douglas William Remole on February 24, 1944. He was laid to rest at the Stonefell Cemetery in Harrowgate. His mother received her son's Memorial Cross, Operational Wings and Certificate from Chief of Air Staff W. A. Dicks on August 22, 1946. Douglas William Remole's brother, Roy Gordon Remole, served as a RCAF flight instructor in England during World War II.

In Flanders Fields

BY JOHN MCCRAE

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie,
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

The Ones That Know

By Sgt. W. A. McKay

Dedicated to Sgt. Earl Rupert of Melfort

It's a road that we've travelled together
The trail leads back twixt the terraced hills,
A ribbon of dusty tract.
White in the light of the moon it lies
Twisting and winding back.
While the years have slipped away
And it's hard to believe that the end of the trail
Came for you, Buddy, today
At the end of the moon-bathed valley.
Where the billowed mountains toss,
The trail winds back through a dim cleft
Under the Southern Cross
Back through the desert lowlands
Where the dust lies thick and white,
And it's hard to believe that we're not going on
Together, buddy, tonight.
When first we chose to travel
The trail that led us here,
I remember the cheers and shouting
The bands and the flags-and the beer
But tonight in this moon-drenched valley
Where your Trail has ended today.
There is only a Peace, a Stillness,
And I think it is better that way.
I know we planned it different,
There were things we were going to do.

Adventure, new worlds to conquer.
And maybe a medal or two.
And then at the end of the journey

Back to the crowds and the roar,
Cheering us back from battle
As they cheered us to it before.
Oh yes we had planned it different
When the trail was fresh to our feet.
How after the dust of the battle
The praises and cheers would be sweet.
But here in the star-studded stillness
Though never a bugle may blow,
There are those who pay silent tribute,
And there are The Ones That Know.
What are the cheers and the praises
That strangers may hold in store
Compared to silent tribute
Of the men that know the score?
Of the men that have travelled with you?

Though they leave you here today
It is they who will remember
When the cheering dies away.
And so, though we leave you Buddy,
Here by the side of the Trail,
Though it leads us on a thousand miles
Your memory will not fail
You are one of us still, and Buddy.
Though the years may come and go
You will travel along with us just the same
And we are
